

Scoil Mhuire gan Smal

Scoil Mhuire gan Smal, Blarney, are one of the winners in the prestigious Eircom 2010 Junior Spider Awards, which were recently announced at a reception in DCU. The awards, which were created to recognise and reward the most talented and innovative uses for the internet in primary and post primary schools across Ireland, received a huge response from schools throughout the country in 2010.

Robin, a programme offering safer internet for parents and teachers (www.project-bird.com/robin.html) was both winner in its category and one of three Grand Prix winners. Fifth year student, and programme designer, Robert Gabriel attended the awards ceremony with his fellow programme designers John and Edward Hurley.
